DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Miss Catherine Fox, for many years a resident of Danielson, died Thursday at Norwich. Miss Fox leaves two sisters, Miss Ellen Fox and Mrs. Mary Gerson of Danielson; also nephews and nieces.

Dr. Ledger J. Morin, well known business man and for years proprietor of a drug store in the City building, died at his home in an apartment in that building, 110 Thursday morning. Since early in the present week Dr. Morin's condition was so serious as to forecast the fatal termination of his illness. He had been in failing health for several years, but continued to give his attention to his business practically up to the time he was taken so seriously ill a few days ago.

Particularly sad is the circumstance that his only son, Robert, a Killbuck high school senior, is a patient at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, recovering from an operation for appendicitis performed about ten days ago.

Dr. Morin was one of the most prominent French-Canadians in this section of eastern Connecticut. He was especially well known in Union St. John Baptist circles throughout New England as the first supreme vice president of the organization for a period of years. Failing health last year forced him to resign from further service in this important post.

Dr. Morin came to Danielson about a score of years ago to enter the employ of Abel L. Reeves, then proprietor of a drug store, as a registered pharmacist. Later, upon Mr. Reeves' retirement, he purchased the business, then located in one of the Johnson buildings on the southerly and easterly side of Main street, and later removed it to a splendidly appointed store in the City building, where he has since done business.

Dr. Morin was born in L'Acadie, P. Q., a son of Tharles and Esther Morin. His early studies were in the schools of his native town and later he went to Montreal for a further course of study along lines to which he was to give his attention during life. Following his studies at Montreal, he entered the College of Pharmacy of Columbia university in New York, and his work completed there, was attached to Bellevue hospital for a period of three years.

Later he was at Manchester, this state, and for a brief period before coming to Danielson, at Jewett City.

Dr. Morin had been affiliated with the republican party during all of his residence in Danielson and for years was a member of the republican town committee. He was a member of the local council of the Union St. John Baptist, an organization that honored him by election to its supreme court of officers, as the representative of Connecticut, and of Court Oak Grove Foresters of America, Danielson. He was a member of St. James' church.

Dr. Morin leaves his wife, a son, Robert, and a daughter, Mignonne. His father, resident with two of his children at St. James, P. Q., and the following brothers and sisters survive him: Herman, St. John P. Q.; Arthur, Arden, St. James, P. Q.; Apponau, R. L.; Mrs. Alphonsine Helle, Notre Dame, P. Q.; Miss Evelyn Morin, St. James, these two sisters; Mrs. Josephine Wolf, New York.

The Windham County Farmers' association has arranged for an institute to be held at Pellet's hall here Wednesday of next week. At the morning session, opening at 10 o'clock, J. S. Owens will speak on Crops for the Dairy Cow. The address scheduled for 11 o'clock is to be by A. R. Merrill and his subject will be The Dairy Cow, Breeding and Record Keeping. At the afternoon session, opening at 1 o'clock, Feeding the Dairy Cow and Computing Returns will be Mr. Merrill's subject, while Mr. Owens will speak on Use of Commercial Fertilizers.

Two fruit meetings are planned by County Agent F. L. Davis to be held in this section today (Friday). The morning meeting will be held at 8:30 o'clock at the farm of Nathan Exley on the state highway between Canterbury and Putnam. The afternoon meeting, at 2 o'clock, will be held at the Aden A. Tillinghast place at South Killingly.

Relative to these meetings, County Agent Davis wrote:

"I have secured Mr. H. Barrow, fruit specialist, who will be with me at this fruit meeting. A practical demonstration will be given, and questions in regard to fruit growing will be answered."

"I know quite a number of farms in Windham county where fruit growing is one of the most profitable cash crops. The amount of labor put on the crop, and comparative return, makes it a very attractive way financially to use spare time in the late winter on orchard operations."

It has been my observation in three counties, this including Windham county, that the men who have made the most profit in fruit growing are those who have pruned, sprayed and fertilized. We would naturally expect this, but it has seemed to me many times that too much has been expected of a neglected orchard.

The fruit that will sell in the future is quality fruit. The fruit that will sell next fall, with more or less of a depression in business, will be quality stuff. This meeting will afford an opportunity for those in the towns of Canterbury, Brooklyn and Plainfield, who are interested in fruit to have their questions answered in a conversational way, which is more efficient than getting a letter from farm papers, bulletins, or any other manner. The man with a few trees, as well as those with a large number, should be present.

Oliver A. Downs, one of Brooklyn's well known farmers, has removed from that town and located in Danielson. Mr. Downs, now occupying a part of the Danielson homestead at Maple and Main streets, is to operate the Danielson farm this year.

Charles H. Pellet and Herbert J. Barnett were in Hartford Thursday on a business trip.

Another five inches of snow came Thursday as March's manifestation that winter is not yet over.

Friends here received Thursday cards postmarked Havana and sent out by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Call of Broad street, who have been in the south for the past month. They expect to return here in April.

Representatives of the supreme official board of the Union St. John Baptist are expected here to attend the funeral of Dr. L. J. Morin.

It was agreed by the Danielson Chamber of Commerce Thursday that Danielson's stores will not open on Dollar day, which is tomorrow (Saturday), until 9:30 a. m.

Complete radio sets, vacuum tubes, head-sets, A and B batteries and accessories. Make appointment for demonstration at the School St. Garage. Tel. 131—adv.

Funeral services are to be held at St. James' church this (Friday) evening.

Arthur H. Jensen of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson Thursday.

Another argument that is being advanced in favor of converting the present ladder truck of the fire department into a motor-driven outfit is the present difficulty of getting horses promptly to haul apparatus to fire. This experience was encountered in the recent garage fire.

Assurance has practically been given that the town had to be equipped for the showing of motion pictures, although no definite announcement has been made as to this.

Those who are liable to pay personal taxes and hope to evade paying extra fees will do well to see Collector George A. Williams on or before Saturday. After Saturday he may legally charge additional fees.

The snow shovel brigade got a bit of belated exercise Thursday in clearing walks about town of snow, and in the business section the job was very well done although there were a few snafus.

Milwaukee is one of the cities that has been "picked up" recently on a radio-telephone set at the home of Harold B. Atwood and a concert enjoyed.

In addition to paying a regular semi-annual dividend this month, the Brooklyn Savings bank has carried a substantial amount to surplus of the earnings of the past six months.

PUTNAM

Putnam may have a state park within its area next year, if plans that have been thought out by the approval of the legislature and the necessary appropriation from that body.

R. H. Bradley has agreed to sell the island, south of the city, for the purpose mentioned, and all who are familiar with the beautiful view agreed that it is ideally suited for the intended purpose. It is understood that representatives of the state bureau of forestry who have inspected the property are enthusiastic over it, and declare that some of the majestic pines that stand there—rising in some instances to a height of 80 feet—are as splendid as any to be found within the borders of Connecticut. There are also large areas of seedlings.

The tract contains 29 1/2 acres. More than a quarter of a century ago, Putnam was a famous island. It was the surrounding territory. It was made easily accessible by a bridge thrown across the Quinebaug river at a point below the old fairgrounds, but the bridge has long since disappeared and the island and the adjoining territory practically abandoned for outlying parties.

In the years that have elapsed since the last pleasant gatherings were held there the spot has improved in natural beauty and is now far more attractive than ever.

The state now has the option on the property, which section many men have tried to purchase from Mr. Bradley during the past few years for the profits that they might reap out of repudiating the handsome grove to timber. Mr. Bradley never accepted any of these offers, but has entered into an agreement to sell to the state, which will own it if the legislature is agreeable.

There is a chance that a state fish hatchery may be established in this corner of the state. The matter was discussed Thursday at a dinner at which state officials were present and a number of sportsmen, as guests of Landlord E. C. Rogers of the Putnam Inn, were present. The gathering was addressed by John W. Tibbott of Al-bany, N. Y., a consulting fish culturist now working in Connecticut. Mr. Tibbott was introduced by State Treasurer G. Harold Gilchrist. All trout fishermen who are interested in seeing a state hatchery established in this section of the state are being invited to be at the Putnam inn hall this (Friday) evening at 7:30 to hear another presentation of the Tibbott matter, who has been engaged for thirty years in the study and culture of fish, as a state and federal official.

eral weeks on account of dissatisfaction with contracts offered them by the Whiting interests, so-called, have won their fight, and resumed shipping in many cases on Thursday morning. It was announced here that prices and terms demanded by the farmers have been accepted.

It has taken practically two months for the valiant farmers of this territory to win what they consider only fair consideration and agreements from the Boston milk producers. While the farmers have suffered considerable money losses in their fight, they are well satisfied for they achieved what they set out to achieve, and further, have demonstrated the effect of the power of the Milk Producers' organization.

Farmers are no longer helpless when occasion arises for dealing with the Boston distributors, a fact of which the distributors are well aware. How reasonable the farmers' demands were may be indicated by citing that milk for which the farmer hereabouts has been receiving about 4 cents net has been retailed at 18 cents per quart in Boston, only 40 miles away.

State Attorney Charles E. Seale was back at his office in this city Thursday morning after spending a winter vacation in the south. Mr. and Mrs. Seale arrived at Pomfret Wednesday evening, much benefited by their stay of several weeks at Camden, S. C., where they remained during all the period they were in the south.
